“The Book of Esther”

There is a time and a place for every person and God knows your time with your place in His purposes. The Book of Esther is unique in the canon of scripture because of the lack of overt references to God. However, some Hebrew manuscripts include it as a part of the book of Nehemiah which anchors it in the narrative of Israel’s 70 years of captivity and their return to rebuild Jerusalem with the Temple. Mordecai and his younger first cousin, Esther who became the Queen, were living in a foreign country but our God never lost track of His purposes for them and their influence on future generations. Even today, every Jewish synagogue yearly reads aloud the Book of Esther during Purim as a remembrance.

God is still accomplishing His plans for His Church by the Holy Spirit’s abiding presence in all believers. Join us in this class to discover that you are “come to the kingdom for such a time as this” and your influence will extend into the generations to come.

"Biblical Perspectives: Tackling Today's Faith Challenges"

Delve into the depths of faith as we explore biblical perspectives on the pressing issues of our time. Join us on this enlightening “podcast journey” where Christian leaders discuss and dissect contemporary challenges faced by believers. Gain insights, find encouragement, and discover how the timeless wisdom of Scripture can guide us through the complexities of faith in our modern world.

Romans

Paul’s epistle to the Romans, demonstrates the importance of faith in Jesus Christ and how an Holy God can reconcile sinful men and women to Himself. Romans 1:16-17 emphasizes that the gospel “is the power of God unto salvation to everyone that believeth.” Martin Lloyd-Jones said, "Romans is a book that can never be praised too much. It is the most complete statement of Christian doctrine in the New Testament, and therefore, in the world. It is a book that has changed the lives of many, and will change many more. It is a book that will never grow old, and will never cease to be relevant." Studying the book of Romans will provide a deep and profound understanding of the gospel message and its implications for you as a believer.

Chorus

The lyrics and the harmonic relationships of music are the heartbeat of the DBBS “Chorus” class. The culmination of this class is to represent the Bible School in a choral presentation on Saturday evening as the capstone of the week. In the daily afternoon class, the students will be introduced to new and old songs or hymns in choral arrangements. Practice in choral harmony is central but it is also an opportunity to explore music theory, worship singing, lyrical theology, and possibly, the creation of new worship songs by the inspired student. All students will experience the sounds of believers singing unto God!
